HUNGARIAN ECHOES

LITTLE HUNGARIAN RHAPSODY

There may be a marked variant of a well-known Hungarian folk song. The other studies are original with the composer. Note the use of the Hungarian note of the "F#m" which is simply the next harmonic, a note with a lowered second and a second fourth. Grade 14.

VOLGA BOATMEN'S SONG

This famous Russian following brought song in early to the peasants who lived on the banks of the river Volga. In later times the chief occupation of these peasants was to pull barges and boats laden with goods up to the west, and while they were engaged in this arduous task they sang the melody which by us is being played and arranged. This piece should begin very soft by us though the Russians were approaching from a far distance. Gradually getting in volume it should reach its climax as they pass, and then as gradually decrease and end the song, as they disappear in the misty distance. Grade 14.

NOCTURNE

In the delicious waltz by Mr. Woodman, the influence of his illustrious teacher, Franz Liszt, is clearly shown. Study this piece with some secret attention to detail that you would give to a Chopin nocturne and you will be gratified with the result. Grade 2.
